Writing

"Pride and prejudice"

Once I have read a book "Pride and prejudice" by Jane Austen. I really liked this book ~~and~~ because of the main heroes and the plot of the story. I really want to see a screen version of this book because it is really enjoyable to have a chance to look at heroes emotions. The main character in this book is Elizabeth Bennet, a young girl, who is really independent and I enjoy it. One day she meets, Mr. Darcy, who firstly disliked her, so we can call their relations as a challenge. Then they start to communicate more and more and their characters start changing. Soon Mr. Darcy understands that he can't live without Elizabeth and wants to marry her. However, they have different social statuses and Elizabeth realises that the society won't approve their couple. In the end of the story they had a big deal and revented themselves and their bad thoughts and just fell in love.

I suppose that a filmmaker would encounter some problems such as Elizabeth's appearance, her interests and places, where she likes to spend her time. He also shouldn't make Mr. Darcys character crucial because it can destroy our impression and attitude to him. I believe that it won't be a problem to choose the cast of the movie because there are a lot of talented actors and actresses in filming world.

I find it to be a great idea to make a screen version of this book because everyone will like to see how love can affect people and they will like the changes in main characters thoughts and actions.
