Peter's regrets about his youth.

Let me tell you about Peter and how his chances passed by him. Peter was a simple young school boy. He had a lot of hobbies such as football, volleyball and his favourite basketball. He was involved in school team and it was his cup of tea. Peter liked playing, but he disliked his team. Actually, he was a social person, who loved to talk with someone and this feature had killed his future career as a sportsman.

One day, the greatest coach of basketball in his city offered Peter to enter in their team. Eventually, the team provided opportunity to be a professional sportsman and their hobby would ~~be~~ become his work and be well paid. Peter was wavered about this idea, but it made him feel disappointed at ~~same~~ the same time. He couldn't agree because he was afraid new environment, ~~he~~ thinking that team would let him down or cheated. Poor Peter couldn't deal with himself and he refused suggestion.

If I was in his shoes I would agree and play in this team. As for me, it doesn't matter to me what someone can say about me, I have ~~power~~ ^{skills} to explain my point of view about myself. Maybe, Peter ~~hadn't~~ hadn't got enough courage to argue, but this thing had killed his chance to realize. ~~It~~

Now, Peter is a man, who work in office. ~~And~~ he understand that he was wrong. Peter admits his mistakes and recommends everyone don't be shy. Don't be the same and do your best. Use all opportunities, which can be gave you. Other's opinion shouldn't play any role in your life. Follow the rules and be happy!
